Feast of the Chair of Saint Peter

Dear Friends in Christ,

As we prepare to launch the Catholics Come Home initiative in the Archdiocese of Boston, we are heeding the Lord’s invitation to cast out our nets wide and far and put out into the deep. It is my fervent prayer that God will renew his Church and bring many of our brothers and sisters back to the Lord’s Table, where we are nourished by his word and strengthened by his Body and Blood.

In the Gospel of Luke we hear the story of the rich young man who comes to Jesus and asks Him, “Good Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?” He is asking the right question, and who better to ask than the Son of God! His words express the deepest longings of a man who is searching for happiness, meaning, and ultimately love. In many ways, the rich young man reminds us of ourselves, and of our own desire for love, happiness and peace that will not pass away. We know that we can only find this desire fulfilled in Christ!

Catholics Come Home is not just another program. It is an invitation for us all to become stronger witnesses of our Catholic faith, inviting others into friendship with Christ. It is my hope for the Archdiocese of Boston that this initiative will help us all to reach out to our brothers and sisters in the faith who have, for one reason or another, seen their faith grow cold. We know that it is by gathering around the fire of God’s love in the Eucharist that we are all strengthened to live as Christ’s disciples.

Please join with me in praying for the spiritual success of Catholics Come Home! We can be assured that when we follow the Lord’s command to put out into the deep, we will never be disappointed.

Asking our Lady, Mother of the Divine Shepherd, to draw you and your loved ones into the loving embrace of her Son, I am

Devotedly yours in Christ,

Dear Father/Monsignor, Parish Staff, Evangelization Teams and Parish Contacts,

The Catholics Come Home initiative is an unprecedented opportunity for Catholics in Boston to invite friends, relatives, neighbors, co-workers and others who have been away to return to active participation in the Church. It is part of a broad program of evangelization that promises to strengthen our parishes and renew our archdiocese. Along with Arise Together in Christ and The Light Is on for You, the Catholics Come Home initiative in Boston is making it easier than ever for brothers and sisters who have been distant from the faith to renew their relationship with Jesus Christ.

This Parish Guide contains an introduction to, and rationale for, Catholics Come Home in Boston, as well as resources and ideas for taking full advantage of the campaign in your parish. We pray that it will inspire and assist you to seek ever more creative ways to become, as Cardinal Seán has urged, ministers of “welcome, reconciliation and understanding to those who have stopped coming to Church.” More importantly, however, I think that you will find it a source of creativity and motivation in the very broad work of evangelization for many years to come.

As a result of the generosity of the faithful in Boston, the Catholics Come Home commercials will air from March 7th to April 24th on all major networks and cable stations in the Boston area. They will be shown around the clock, including prime time. The average viewer will see them approximately twenty times. Television and radio stations will carry the commercials in English, Spanish, Portuguese and Haitian-Creole. The commercials alone, however, can only extend the invitation. Pastors, parish staff and parish lay leaders are the key to the success of this initiative. As Go Make Disciples says, “… through the proclamation of the Word and the wholehearted celebration of the saving deeds of Jesus …” evangelization happens.

May God bless you and all that you are doing to advance the work of evangelization and faith formation in the Archdiocese of Boston.

Sincerely,

Janet Benestad
Secretary for Faith Formation and Evangelization

Intro to CCH

Catholics Come Home is a creative new way of utilizing media to reach out and welcome people to the Catholic Church community.

In particular, through a well-produced set of commercials and a friendly interactive website, active Catholics are invited to share their faith while inactive Catholics are invited to come back to Church. Both groups are encouraged to deepen their relationship with Jesus Christ, to grow in the understanding of their faith, and to become a more intentional witness for others in word and deed.

The powerful results of mixing a greater dedication to prayer and evangelization with the better utilization of media and technology have been amazing for the Church.

“Using the media correctly and competently can lead to a genuine enculturation of the Gospel”

In the Diocese of Corpus Christi, Texas, the bilingual Catholics Come Home/Catolicos Regresen saw a 17% increase (over 100,000 people) in Mass attendance only three months after the CCH commercials began.

In the Diocese of Phoenix, Arizona, over 6,000 people visited the CCH Diocesan website and over 10,000 people communicated directly with a parish. The Diocese saw Mass attendance increase 12% and parishes that offered explicit programming saw an increase of 22% from the previous year.

“There is no doubt that the Catholics Come Home program has had a very positive effect in the Diocese of Providence. Time after time I have heard from many of our pastors who have reported an increased Sunday Mass attendance, longer lines for the Sacrament of Reconciliation, inspiring stories of people returning to the Church and, in general, a renewed and widespread interest in the mission and spiritual resources of the Church. I hope that other dioceses will experience the blessings of Catholics Come Home as we surely have in the Diocese of Providence, my prayers for God’s blessings upon you and your good and important work for the Church” (Bishop Thomas J. Tobin, Diocese of Providence).

“The contemporary culture has reached a point where it turns off what is not immediately accessible. Our society prefers to listen in sound bites, rather than in semesters. Slogans replace thoughtful explanations” (Disciples of the Lord: Sharing the Vision, A Pastoral Letter on the New Evangelization, 2010, Most Reverend Donald W. Wuerl, 10).
Why Catholics Come Home in Boston?

The Archdiocese of Boston is excited to partner with Catholics Come Home and to learn from them and the other dioceses that have begun this initiative ahead of us.

Cardinal Seán has been welcoming Catholics back to Church since his arrival. He wants former Catholics to know that the Church wants to welcome them back to their family.

He needs every Catholic to help to do this. We all know someone in our lives whom we love who is not an active part of the Church community. The CCH commercials can play a vital role in helping people to re-enter the phases of evangelization.

Materials have been specially created for the Archdiocese of Boston in Spanish, Portuguese, and English. You will see them up in every parish across the Archdiocese.

CCH Commercials will be running all through this Lent. We can utilize these commercials to start conversations before, during, and after the moment our friends and family see them. We will have the opportunity to share what we believe and the reasons why we still go to Church.

Images from CCH Commercials

CCH has found that parishes who frame their response by certain “fruitful principles” experience a greater positive impact in their own parish. Anyone in the parish can help with these. Staff lead these by example.

The “fruitful principles”:

- Prayer is the foundation of everything: parishioners of all ages are given ways to pray for evangelization
- Evangelization is personal: parishioners are empowered to invite and welcome newcomers into their parish in a variety of ways
- Evangelization permeates every person and every ministry within the parish
- Parish staffs come together to plan evangelization efforts
Our State of Affairs

Our Culture Today

Looking around today, one can see the influence of unrestrained materialism, excessive individualism, and a human secularism that is actually hurting people.

CCH knows what is needed in the modern world today. This fuels their mission. It should also ignite us for ours.

“It is clear that our society is in the midst of a culture war. More than ever, people need God, but sadly, many have lost sight of the treasures of the Catholic faith. We can see the reality of our fallen-away brothers and sisters not only in our nation as a whole, but even in our own families and neighborhoods. The evidence is shocking:

- Only 33 percent of U.S. Catholics attend Mass on a weekly basis. That means approximately 42.7 million U.S. Catholics are not practicing Catholics (CARA Catholic Poll [CCP]).

- The number of Americans identifying themselves as non-religious/secular increased 110 percent from 1990 to 2000! It is now 13.2 percent of the total population (World Christian Encyclopedia's Comparative Study of Churches and Religions in the Modern World).

- As many as 100,000 baptized Catholics in the U.S. drift away from Church each year (Claveau, Victor The 7% Solution, A Guide to Evangelization at the Parish, Community or Diocesan Level).

Evangelization is critically needed, now!”
(Catholics Come Home)

“Two generations of secularization have fashioned this time when some do not even know the foundational prayers, or understand the most basic of Catholic devotions, including Marian devotions, and many have not been introduced to the lives of the Saints. Still others do not sense a value in Mass attendance, fail to avail themselves of the Sacrament of Penance, and have often lost a sense of mystery” (Wuerl, 10).
Inactive Catholics

Understanding Inactive Catholics:
People are inactive or separated from the Church for a variety of reasons. Acknowledging and understanding why people have been away can inform our efforts to invite and welcome them back.

Too Busy & Waiting for an Invitation

Profile:
- About 90% of returning Catholics do not articulate a doctrinal issue as a reason why they left.
- The vast majority of fallen-away Catholics have become inactive due to social stresses. A majority of Americans have left the faith of their childhood due to social stressors that devalue religious affiliation and practice.
- As many as 90% of Catholics who have returned say they were waiting for an invite.

Pastoral Response:
- Invitation: The most common response from this group was “I came because I was invited.” Many responded to the commercials as the invite, and many others were invited by parishioners.
- Confession: The confessional was also a place of return for many of these fallen-away Catholics.
- Engagement: This group needs to be engaged by active Catholics who live and share their relationship with Christ and the beauty and richness of their Catholic faith.
- It is important to point out that many in this group do not consider themselves “fallen-away” but less than active. Many had not been to Church in years but still considered themselves as part of a parish. Efforts of outreach to registered but non-active parishioners and ongoing Catechesis seems to be the most effective tools to counter this phenomenon.

Returning Catholics

-  Too Busy & Waiting for an Invitation
- Doctrinal Issues
Doctrinal Issues

Profile:
- Of the 10% of returning Catholics who identify doctrinal issues as a reason for leaving the Church, the two most prominent concerns are marriage and homosexuality.
- Marriage: 20% indicated having Marriage issues, however only 7% indicated that was a reason why they left. All of the 7% fell into dialog with our Offices and many are currently seeking annulments.
- Homosexuality: (About 3% of emails indicated personal issues of same sex attraction, while an addition 2% referred to the Churches teaching on homosexuality)

Pastoral Response:
- Marriage: Of those in irregular marriages an acknowledgement of God’s love for them and an explanation as to why marriage was so highly regarded in the Church seemed to be a great starting point towards more specific dialog on their situation. Validating the goodness and beauty of marriage as a point of departure responded to what many of them had found or been looking for in a marriage. Use of scripture seemed to receive the most positive responses, as did an explanation of how they could appropriately participate in the Church community as they discerned their readiness for whatever steps might be necessary to attempt a resolution of their current situation. Many expressed deep frustration of not being able to receive Holy Communion, and felt it was a form of Church punishment. Others had been instructed to receive and were seeking clarification. A candid conversation about participation in Holy Communion and dignity of Marriage was often difficult but bore much fruit. Many of those who inquired had been promised quick-fixes in the past, and seemed to respond better to the recognition of the difficulty of their situation, and honest answers. The basic misunderstandings of the annulment process also needed to be addressed.
- Homosexuality: Of those who had same-sex attractions or referred to the Church’s teaching on homosexuality often felt rejected by the Church, for a decision that they were not culpable for. While the dialogs were difficult, proclaiming the Gospel as “Good News” and assuring them of God’s love and each of our call to holiness and chastity did elicit positive responses. When necessary an apology was offered for any mistreatment or alienation they had felt from the Church that may have assaulted their dignity as a human, care was taken not to grant dignity to their sin, but to who they are as a child of God. Nearly all those who had same-sex attraction were willing to fall into a dialog but often felt judged at any specific reference to sin or our a universal call to holiness. It was clear that email and phone conversations were not the best way to communicate the love Christ and His Church has for them, but the small efforts made to proclaim in love and truth the teachings of Christ and His Church elicited some positive responses.

“This vital field of action for the Church requires a radical change of mentality, an authentic new awakening of conscience in everyone. New methods are needed, as are new expressions and new courage” (Cf. John Paul II, Discourse to the 19th General Assembly of CELAM, March 9, 1983, Insegnamenti di Giovanni Paolo VI, 1 [1983] pp660-699).
Misunderstanding

Profile:
- Of those who articulated doctrinal issues as the reason for leaving, nearly 50% exhibited a fundamental misunderstanding about the church’s teaching.

Pastoral Response:
- Website resources are a very valuable tool in addressing many issues. Often what is needed is some clarification, while at other times apologetics. Many people have difficulty making connections with other doctrines. In responding to one issue, there is often a more foundational issue that first needs to be addressed. It is clear that a more comprehensive catechesis that connects the narrative thread of our salvation history with the truths as professed by the Church is necessary.

Those Affiliated with another Christian Denomination

Profile:
- Some Catholics who leave the Catholic Church eventually join another Christian denomination, but many do not remain affiliated with that denomination.

Pastoral Response:
- Many who were now affiliated with another Christian denomination cited that they were accepted as a remarried person, or as a homosexual. Addressing these individuals was difficult and I am not sure if any approaches succeeded. Sharing with them our desire for their continued conversion and growing in holiness in whatever situation they had established a relationship with Christ earned some positive responses, but no dialog. This sincere desire was coupled with a brief scriptural explanation in support of the Church’s teaching on the subject and the promise of prayer.
Sex Abuse Scandal

Profile:
- Many people cite the sex abuse scandal when referring to leaving the Church. However, most individuals have actually left the Church for other reasons but mentioned the sex abuse by priests as further justification for their leaving. (CARA's CCP 2003 shows that nearly 85% of fallen-away Catholics became inactive before the sex abuse scandal.)

Pastoral Response:
- Those who indicated the Sex Abuse Scandal in their correspondence with the Diocese fell into two distinct categories. Those, who like many of us, were asking how and why did sex abuse of minors by priest happen, and those who were convinced that sex abuse is systemic in the Church.

- The first group responded extremely positively to shared concern and the presentation of the facts. Letting them know that the Church was deeply saddened by this, stands with them and the victims in addition to sharing the good work being done with safe environment training, along with the statistics to help put this social issue into context helped restore many people’s trust.

- The second group was approached the same way but was hesitant to believe that the apology and the information offered were sincere. It was helpful to point out the links to the Dallas Charter, and various apologies issued by the Pope and Bishops.

- It is clear in either case that the Church has more work to do to restore the trust of many fallen-away and non-Catholics. Recognizing faults and in humility sharing the facts, dispelling myths and defending the Church is necessary as many have been misinformed about the percentage of priests involved, and the response of the Church.

“ Entire generations have become disassociated from the support systems that facilitated the transmission of faith. Tragically, the sins of a few have encouraged a distrust in some of the structure of the Church itself” (Wuerl, 10).
A Culture of Evangelization

Why Evangelization?

“A Culture of Evangelization

Why Evangelization?

One day I went to get my haircut at the store I usually go to. I ended up having my haircut by a woman I had never met before. As the woman began to cut my hair we engaged in a conversation. She asked me if I were a priest (I was wearing my clerics). I told her I was and then she asked me: “so what’s it all about.” I responded: “what’s ‘what’ all about? Christianity?” She said “yes.” I said to myself: “What? I’ve never been asked this question before? What do I say?”

In a somewhat panicked state, I just started talking, desperately trying to give her a big picture of salvation history. Oh yes, I went for it, beginning with the creation of Adam and Eve. Halfway through my explanation I kept thinking: “I am failing miserably,” as I watched her nod her head with a blank look on her face.

All I could think of was Cardinal Seán being on the other side of the mirror evaluating me and saying (in his distinctive voice) “Father, you have failed the evangelization test. You are the weakest link. Good bye!”

The experience led me to some serious reflection over the course of the next couple of days, asking myself how could I have handled this differently? Then it came to me, this woman was not really concerned about the whole of salvation history. She was looking at me, a priest, and trying to figure out: why would a young man do this with his life? What would make a person give up everything to follow Christ?

The words of St. Peter ring true for me: “Always be ready to give an explanation to anyone who asks you for a reason for your hope” (1Pet 3:15). What this woman wanted, more than anything else, was to hear my story. She wanted to know why I believe. She wanted to hear the reason for my hope!

...The task of evangelizing all people constitutes the essential mission of the Church...Evangelizing is in fact the grace and vocation proper to the Church, her deepest identity. She exists in order to evangelize…” (Evangelii Nuntiandi [EN, 14]).
The Reason for my Hope

The Second Vatican Council made tremendous efforts to communicate to lay faithful everywhere, that all Christians, not just the bishop, priest, nun, monk or consecrated person, are called to holiness. All Christians are called to be holy! All Christians are called to be saints!

The life and witness of the saints lifts us out of a mere horizontal view of reality in order to contemplate that which is eternally Good, Beautiful and True. The saints, whose lives would be considered folly by many of the voices in our culture, lead us to reflect upon the deeper meaning of life; where do I come from, what is the purpose of my life, and what is my destiny?

The saints in the life of the Church proclaim that the answers to these questions, and so many others like them, can be found most fully and completely in the person of Jesus Christ. As the Council articulated: “Christ, the final Adam, by the revelation of the mystery of the Father and His love, fully reveals man to man himself and makes his supreme calling clear” (Gaudium et Spes 22). In other words, Christ reveals to us what it means to be human, how to live in this world and the glorious reality that we are invited to share in His very divine life, now and for all eternity.

Pope Benedict, in an address to Catechists, illuminates the reality that an authentic witness to Christ, like the saints have done for centuries, reveals to us the “art of living,” and thus the path to true happiness.

"To evangelize means: to show this path - to teach the art of living. At the beginning of His public life Jesus says: I have come to evangelize the poor (Luke 4:18); this means: I have the response to your fundamental question; I will show you the path of life, the path toward happiness-rather: I am that path… But this art is not the object of a science-this art can only be communicated by [one] who has life-He who is the Gospel personified” (The New Evangelization and Building the Civilization of Love, Joseph Cardinal Ratzinger, Address to Catechists and Religion Teachers, 12 December, 2000).

In the fourteenth chapter of St. John, Jesus proclaims: “I am the Way, and the Truth and the Life, no one can come to the Father except through Me” (John 14). This truth has been and will continue to be proclaimed by Christians everywhere until the end of the ages. Christians believe and boldly profess that true liberation from sin, the fullness of life, and eternal life itself, can only be found in and through the Person of Jesus Christ. All those who at this moment enjoy the gift of eternal life, are able to do so because of one reason and one reason alone: the Passion, Death and Resurrection of Jesus Christ, the only Redeemer of Humanity, whose blood obtained for us the hope of salvation.

“For God so loved the world that He sent His only Son, so that those who believe in Him may not die but have eternal life” (Jn 3:16). As Christ was sent by the Father for the redemption of the world so now the Church, through her members, are sent to carry on this mission. “As the Father has sent me, so I send you” (Jn) “Go therefore and make disciples of all nations…” (Matt 28).

We are sent forth to invite others to encounter Christ, and to experience the power of His life, His love, His mercy; His Paschal Mystery. For us to hold this sacred truth and joy to ourselves would be a grave injustice to our neighbor, whom God has ultimately created for friendship with Himself.

At the end of every Holy Mass, the priest or deacon says in these or similar words: “the Mass is ended go in peace.” The implication is that our worship will lead us to be like Mary, the Theotokos (“God bearer”) and bring Christ whom we have just received in the Eucharist, to all the world.

“And yet, if His Son came, it was precisely in order to reveal to us, by His word and by His life, the ordinary paths of salvation. And He has commanded us to transmit this revelation to others with His own authority” (EN, 80).

Show everyone inside and outside the Church that we are a welcoming and inviting parish.

Prayer Intention Cards:
Please have these prayer intention cards available in your church—in the pews or by the doors, for example—for parishioners to write in the first names of people who are away from the Church. Then parishes can collect them (either in the offertory basket, a box in the back of the church, or in another way), and then the parish may pray for all the names listed on all cards during Lent. Or if someone takes the card with them, there are instructions for mailing the card to the Pastoral Center, and we will remember them in our prayers during Masses.

Suggested General Intercessions for Lent

Ash Wednesday:
That we who are gathered here take seriously our commission to be ambassadors for Christ and invite those who are not with us each week to come home to our faith community, we pray to the Lord.

First week:
That our parish community will be strengthened by the Lenten fast we have begun and reach out to those who have fallen away from the practice of the faith, we pray to the Lord.

Second week:
That each of us will be transfigured by the love and mercy of God and be willing to share this love with others, especially those who are not with us each week, we pray to the Lord.

Third week:
That our friends and family members who thirst for meaning will recognize Jesus as the source of living water and be quenched by the sacramental life of the Church, we pray to the Lord.

Fourth week:
That those who walk in darkness will recognize Jesus as the source of light and life, we pray to the Lord.

Fifth week:
That those who are not with us each week will recognize that Martha’s words to her sister Mary—“The Teacher is here and is asking for you”—are meant for all of us, we pray to the Lord.

Sixth week:
That God will give each of us a well-trained tongue that we may find the words to speak to the weary and to those who have been away from the Church, we pray to the Lord.

Homily Helps

Ash Wednesday (March 9th, 2011)
Joel 2:12-18; 2Cor 5:20-6:2; Matt 6:1-6, 16-18

• Today marks the beginning of our Lenten journey. All who come to pray on this day will receive ashes and be invited to turn away from sin, and conform themselves to Christ.

• There appears to be a contradiction between the outward sign of repentance (ashes) and Jesus’ instruction: “But when you fast, anoint your head and wash your face, so that you may not appear to be fasting…” (Matt 6:17-18).

• The Prophet Joel calls for a corporate fast (“Blow the trumpet in Zion! Proclaim a fast, call an assembly; Gather the people...”) which reminds us “all have sinned and have fallen short of the glory of God” (Rom 3:23), and that all are in need of ongoing repentance and conversion. The members of the Universal Church throughout the world acknowledge their need for mercy, repentance and conversion. This corporate reality proclaims to all our need for God and our need for a Savior.

• The sign of the cross made by ashes marks us to be humble witnesses to the great mercy and love of our Lord. Yes we are sinners in need of forgiveness, but we are also Children of God who are “ambassadors” of His great mercy. Lent marks out a time where we can be “ambassadors” of this great mercy to our brothers and sisters who are far away. We can strive to be living witnesses of His unchanging love.

• “…The task of evangelizing all people constitutes the essential mission of the Church…Evangelizing is in fact the grace and vocation proper to the Church, her deepest identity. She exists in order to evangelize…” (EN, 14)

• Saint Francis: “preach the Gospel at all times, and if you have to use words.”

• “Hypocrites:” Jesus uses this word to criticize the Pharisees and anyone who prays, fasts or gives alms for show.

• The Apostles were witnesses to Christ and His Resurrection. Their lives were transformed by their encounter with Jesus, and they sought to live for Him alone. Looking at the life of St. Peter, St. Paul and many of the saints we can easily say; “every saint had a past and every sinner has a future.” By God’s grace we can become living witnesses of Jesus Christ, and invite others, by our words, example, and invitation into a powerful life-giving friendship with Him, through His Body the Church.

• Remember: “The Light Is On For You.” Jesus awaits us in this beautiful Sacrament, let’s lead by example!
2nd Sunday (March 20th, 2011)
Gen 12:1-4a; 2Tim 1:8b-10; Matt 17:1-9

• When Jesus was baptized in the Jordan by John, the Heavenly Father spoke: “this is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased.” In today’s Gospel, the Father once again speaks similar words, and adds an instruction to the Apostles: “...Do whatever he tells you.”

• After this instruction, the first words of Jesus are as follows: “Rise, and do not be afraid.”

• These words of Jesus have echoed throughout the centuries, to man and woman alike, and yet, how often we forget them.

• Jesus continuously calls us out of ourselves to new life, a “holy life.” He calls us to rise every day and run to Him in daily prayer, especially the Eucharist. He calls us to rise and participate fully in the Sacramental life of the Church. He calls us to rise and live a life of Christian discipleship, bearing witness to him by what we say and what we do.

• We are reminded, that the Transfiguration experience on Mount Tabor was a special grace for the journey of Saints Peter, James and John. This was to strengthen them for the road ahead. Life on the mountaintop of God’s glory is not the norm of Christian living, but rather life in the valley (of the shadow of death).

• We need not be afraid to live life fully and faithfully in the valley. It is expected that we will encounter many trials and hardships, for we follow a Crucified and Risen Lord.

• We are called to be a living Gospel for all men and women to hear. St. Paul tells us that it was through the Gospel that life and immortality in Christ were brought to light. You are called to be a living Gospel, a light shining in the darkness, who will help others to not be afraid to rise and embrace Christ.
  ○ Will you let His story be told through you? Will you proclaim His greatness? Will you speak? Will you witness? Will you invite?

• How do we do this? Pope Paul VI calls us first and foremost to be authentic witnesses, in word and deed, to Christ living presence.
  ○ Pope Paul VI stated that “Modern man listens more willingly to witnesses than to teachers, and if he does listen to teachers it is because he is a witness first” (EN, 41)

• Our faithful witness will lead, one day, to our giving testimony of the great things the Lord has done for us.
  ○ “…even the finest witness will prove ineffective in the long run if it is not explained, justified—what Peter called always having ‘your answer ready for people when they ask you the reason for the hope that you all have’...the Good News proclaimed by the witness of life sooner or later has to be proclaimed by the word of life” (EN, 22).
• The covenant God made with Abraham did not promise that his life would be easy. Abraham’s faith was tried and tested as he literally put his entire life on the line for the Lord; his willingness to leave his home and family to follow God’s plan, and ultimately offering his son Isaac in sacrifice.

• Abraham’s willingness to step out of his comfort zone, to put his neck on the line for his faith, gives an example of what it means to live by faith; what it means to live for Christ in the valley.

• “And may the world of our time, which is searching, sometimes with anguish, sometimes with hope, be enabled to receive the Good News not from evangelizers who are dejected, discouraged, impatient or anxious, but from ministers of the Gospel whose lives glow with fervor, who have first received the joy of Christ, who are willing to risk their lives so that the kingdom may be proclaimed and the Church established in the midst of the world” (EN, 80).

• This week, as we continue our Lenten discipline, the Lord commissions us to be His witnesses. There are so many people, especially Catholics who, for one reason or another, have fallen away. Christ is counting on us, to be His hands, His feet, His voice to reach out to these people.

• His words to us are simple and straightforward: “Rise, do not be afraid.” And by the grace of God, we will realize, as the Apostles did, that we are not alone: “…they saw no one else but Jesus…”

• “The Light is On For You” is a great program to invite our brothers and sisters, who have been away from the Lord and His Church, to experience this Lent.

3rd Sunday (March 27th, 2011)
Ex 17:3-7; Rom 5:1-2, 5-8; Jn 4:5-42

• “The woman left her water jar.” Why? A) Her thirst was quenched; B) She was set free; and C) She had a story to tell.

• A quick inventory of the desires of the human heart (food, drink, health, love, peace, justice, life, etc.) shows us that we long to be happy; the immediate fulfillment of our desires should bring happiness. Ultimately, the happiness we long for is deeper than the satisfaction any person or thing can offer. “You have made us for Yourself oh God, and our hearts are restless until they rest in you” (St. Augustine, Confessions).

• The woman of five plus husbands who meets Jesus at the well thirsts for a love that her five previous husbands could not offer. Jesus, the remedy for her dry, weary heart, lovingly proposes to her a remedy—His Living Water.
• Her encounter with the Bridegroom of her soul is dramatic; she is transformed and changed, she is satisfied because her dry, weary soul drinks from the fountain of Living Water.

• She is so touched by the presence of Jesus, filled with His love, that her earthly desires become secondary to the PERSON of Jesus. She leaves her water jar, because her thirst has been quenched.
  ○ “The water jar is the fallen desire of man that draws pleasure from the dark wells of the world but is never satisfied for long. Conversion to Christ moves us, like the Samaritan woman, to renounce the world, leave behind the desires of our earthen vessels, and follow a new way of life” (St. Augustine, Tract. On John, 15, 16, 30).

• Saint Paul’s proclamation: “But God proves His love for us in that while we were still sinners Christ died for us.” The person who has encountered, who has received the “Gift of God” in the person of Jesus, drinks of the Living Water, and is able to say: “But God proves His love for us in that while we were still sinners, CHRIST DIED FOR ME!!!!!”

• “The Light is On For You” initiative provides an extraordinary way to experience the personal love of Christ, mediated to us through the ministry of the priest.

• This encounter with Jesus, this encounter with His love draws us out of ourselves, and beckons us to repentance and conversion. Leaving our “water jar” behind, we are truly free to love as God loves. For whoever commits sin becomes a slave to sin, but through repentance and conversion we experience the freedom of the Children of God.

• Having received the “Gift of God,” the “Living Water” of His Holy Spirit, the woman now seeks to share this “Gift” with others. She testifies, she tells others what Jesus has done for her.

• What is our story? Who is Jesus for you? What has He done for you in your life? Could you share that story with someone? The mark of the disciple, like the woman at the well, is that a disciple desires to share THIS GOOD NEWS with others. One of the best, non-threatening ways we can do this, is by sharing our story; what Jesus means to you, who Jesus is for you, why do you follow Him, why do you go to Church?

• What’s your story?
• In Chapter 8 of St. John’s Gospel Jesus proclaims: “I am the light of the world, whoever follows me will not walk in darkness but will have the light of life.” The Pharisees respond immediately by saying to Jesus: “You testify on your own behalf, so your testimony cannot be verified (Jn 8:12, 13).

• In today’s Gospel (John 9) the miracle (sign) of the man born blind testifies to the glorious “works of God” in Christ Jesus.
  ○ “Sign” (or miracle) is used 17 times in the Gospel of St. John and is mostly contained in the first twelve chapters, known as the “Book of Signs.” There are seven signs (miracles) in the Gospel of John. St. John uses the term sign, not only to indicate the great miracles of Jesus, but more importantly, to point to the person of Christ, whose glory and power are revealed through them.

• The man’s blindness reminds us of what life is like without Faith – we walk in darkness and shadow of death (loneliness, isolation, alienation, desperation). Jesus’ encounter with this man lifts him out of darkness and into His own wonderful light.

• Friendship with Jesus continuously calls us out to renewal. We are always in constant need of conversion. No one is immune from the need for daily conversion!

• This new life calls us to a new way being, seeing, and living. We are “Children of the Light” (Eph), whose lives are to testify to the presence, the life, the love, the mercy, the person of Jesus Christ.
  ○ New way of being – “it is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me” (Gal 2:20).
    ▪ We love with the love of Christ Jesus; His grace changes us and empowers us.
  ○ New way of seeing – “not as man sees does God see” (1 Sam).
    ▪ We see the world, our neighbor, each other as Christ sees them
  ○ New way of living – “live as Children of the light” (Eph)
    ▪ Our lives, united with and conformed to Christ, become a light shining in the darkness (of sin, pain, doubt, lukewarmness, despair, etc), a living Gospel (of peace, mercy, love, hope) for all to hear.

• The work of Evangelization calls for great courage and patience:
  ○ Courage - Christ was willing to take the risk of healing on the Sabbath knowing that His persecutors would take action.
  ○ Patience - Christ was patient with the Blind Man as it took him a while to come to faith. Notice the progression and deepening of faith in the Blind Man by the way he refers to Jesus: “man,” “prophet,” “from God,” and “Lord.”
• Pope Benedict notes that Don Didimo, a parish priest of Bassano del Grappa, wrote that “Jesus preached by day, by night he prayed.” With these few words, he wished to say: “Jesus had to acquire the disciples from God. The same is always true. We ourselves cannot gather men. We must acquire them by God for God.” All methods are empty without the foundation of prayer. The word of the announcement must always be drenched in an intense life of prayer.” (Address to Catechists and Religion Teachers, 2000).

• Our intimate friendship with Jesus and the new and abundant life He wishes us to share in, beckon us to be part of His Mission! Christ is counting on you and I to be a living sign, to testify to His presence in the world. The Blind Man, symbolized by so many of our brothers and sisters who are in darkness (far away from living in the love, mercy and freedom of Jesus), is waiting for you…is waiting for your testimony…will you leave him in the dark?

• “It’s a matter of life or death.” When we ponder the reality of sin, which leads to death, and grace, which leads to life, we can say that the spiritual life is a matter of life and death. The Catechism rightly points out that we are in a “spiritual battle” for the effects of original sin leave our human nature wounded, weakened and inclined to evil (CCC 405).

• The themes of this weekend’s readings, death and life, flesh and spirit address the very issue of living out our Baptism: life in the Holy Spirit, as God’s adopted Children, versus living under the relentless slavery of sin and death.

• St. Paul reminds us that if we are living in the flesh we cannot please God. What is needed is a change of heart and a resolve to live in the spirit.

• Jesus’ words “Lazarus, come out” are spoken with authority and power as he calls him forth from the grave. When the Christian goes to the Sacrament of Confession, and lays down the burden of their sins, the priest, with all of the power and authority of God, raises this soul from death to life!

• Coming to life in Christ, paradoxically calls us to a death-to die to the old self. It calls us to be transformed in our mind and behaviors, to die to the “old” ways of thinking and seeing life, and to see them with the mind of Christ.

• Pope Benedict writes: “The Greek word for converting means to rethink-to question one’s own and common way of living; to allow God to enter into the criteria of one’s life; to not merely judge according to the current opinions. Thereby, to convert means: not to live as all the others live, not do what all do, not feel justified in dubious, ambiguous, evil actions just because others do the same; begin to see one’s life through the eyes of God; thereby looking for the good, even if uncomfortable; not aiming at the judgment of the majority, of men, but on the justice of God-in other words: to look for a new style of life, a new life” (Address to Catechists and Religion Teachers, 2000).
• “The Light Is On For You” this week, come and experience this power!

• Ezekiel prophesies resurrection and a return to the sacred land. In the fullness of Revelation, this Sacred Word is fulfilled every time one sinner repents and turns back to the Lord. We are raised to New Life in Him and the Land we return to, our Home, is Life in the loving embrace of the Most Blessed Trinity.

• Heaven begins here and now, and reaches its fulfillment after death.

• Like Ezekiel, like Jesus, we are called to speak Truth and Life into the darkness of sin and death. As our culture increasingly pushes God out of the center, we begin to lose sight of our dignity, our origin, our most high calling. God is substituted for the dominion of man, and man is incapable of saving himself. It will be up to you, the baptized believer, empowered by the Holy Spirit, to bear witness to the Life of Christ, and invite others to experience His presence in the Sacraments of the Church.

  ○ “And yet, if His Son came, it was precisely in order to reveal to us, by His word and by His life, the ordinary paths of salvation. And He has commanded us to transmit this revelation to others with His own authority” (EN, 80).

Sunday before Ash Wednesday

Catholics Come Home — The readings we will hear on Wednesday couldn’t be any clearer. The prophet Joel tells us: “Even now, says the LORD, return to me with your whole heart ... and return to the LORD, your God. For gracious and merciful is he, slow to anger, rich in kindness, and relenting in punishment.”

Saint Paul tells the Corinthians, and us, “We are ambassadors for Christ, as if God were appealing through us. We implore you on behalf of Christ, be reconciled to God... Behold, now is a very acceptable time; behold, now is the day of salvation.”

On Wednesday, when the ashes are placed on our foreheads, we have a choice to make. We can be ambassadors for Christ and share our personal experience of our God who is rich in kindness, or we can remain silent. Now is a very acceptable time to invite family, friends, neighbors, and co-workers who have been away from the Catholic Church to come home. www.CatholicsComeHomeBoston.org

First Sunday – March 13

Catholics Come Home — Today we hear Matthew tell us of Jesus’ preparation for his public ministry. Matthew writes: “He fasted for forty days and forty nights, and afterwards he was hungry.”

And who wouldn’t be hungry? Some people have a hard enough time with fast and abstinence on Ash Wednesday. There is another kind of hunger, one that isn’t related to what we eat. Most of us know—or perhaps are related to—people who have a spiritual thirst. They have not been with us each week as we come together to praise God and find strength in His word, His sacrament, and each other. There is an empty place when the family gathers. Pray this week for the courage to invite someone you know to come home.

Second Sunday – March 20
Catholics Come Home—Imagine being on the mountain with Jesus and Peter, James, and John. How to begin to understand what happened! Peter got it right when he said to Jesus, “Lord, it is good that we are here”. For our family of faith, though, some of us are not here. How can we convince them that Jesus waits for us to return? Pray to the Holy Spirit this week for the right words to say to someone you know who has been away. www.CatholicsComeHomeBoston.org

Third Sunday – March 27
Catholics Come Home—This week we hear about water and thirst. With all of the precipitation this winter has brought, it is hard to imagine being thirsty. The Samaritan woman at the well is an important figure in the Gospel. She is an evangelist par excellence leaving her water jug to tell the townspeople what she had heard. John writes: “Many of the Samaritans of that town began to believe in him because of the word of the woman who testified. He told me everything I have done.” We do not know her name but we know that her conversation with Jesus is lengthy. With whom do we need to have a conversation this week? To whom can we bring the news that Jesus offers living water? Invite someone who has been away to come home. Jesus is waiting. www.CatholicsComeHomeBoston.org

Fourth Sunday – April 3
Catholics Come Home—If you’re reading this in the bulletin, you’re here, with us, worshiping God and being strengthened by His word and sacrament, on a faith journey with those sitting around you—whether you know them by name or not. You see what the Lord has prepared for us: “You spread the table before me in the sight of my foes; you anoint my head with oil; my cup overflows.” Some people have forgotten what awaits us here. In the Gospel, the parents of the man born blind respond to the Pharisees: “We do not know how he sees now, nor do we know who opened his eyes. Ask him, he is of age; he can speak for himself.” It’s our task—all of us here—to speak for ourselves about how God has opened our eyes; speak of how God works in our lives to those who are not here. www.CatholicsComeHomeBoston.org

Fifth Sunday – April 10
Catholics Come Home—We’ve heard the story of Lazarus a million times and know some of this story by heart. “And Jesus wept.” “See how he loved him.” “Untie him and let him go.” This is a story of friendship, love, emotion, and miracles. During the week take a few minutes to re-read this beautiful Gospel passage (John 11:1-45 www.usccb.org/nab/041011.shtml)

Think of the people you love who are not with us each week. What word or phrase jumps out at you? How can you bring Jesus’ promise of eternal life to them? Why re-invent the wheel? Perhaps the simplest and best words are those of Martha to her sister Mary: “The Teacher is here and is asking for you.” www.CatholicsComeHomeBoston.org

Sixth Sunday – April 17 Palm Sunday
Catholics Come Home—Our Lenten journey is nearing an end. We are at the beginning of the most solemn week in our Church calendar. Some people joined us six weeks ago on Ash Wednesday and perhaps there are people here today who have not been with us each week. It is good for us to be together! How much better our observance of Lent would have been if everyone who came for ashes and everyone who is here for palms, was with us each week! And how much better our celebration of the Easter season will be (not just one day but a whole season) and beyond, if we gather here to worship God and give thanks for the blessings in our lives each week.

The prophet Isaiah says: “The Lord GOD has given me a well-trained tongue, that I might know how to speak to the weary a word that will rouse them.” We pray that each of us will be open to the working of the Holy Spirit within us, that each of us will develop a well-trained tongue that will rouse the weary and invite and welcome people home to the practice of the faith. www.CatholicsComeHomeBoston.org

Clearly there needs to be the strong and supportive witness, leadership, and pastoral oversight of the Pastor and priests. Initial research is showing that if a priest maintains these and then delegates the clear tasks and responsibilities of the project to an active, faithful, and formed lay person, then the success of the program increases in both the short and long term results.

Surrounding this missionary captain with the creation of an Evangelization Team of other active Catholics increases the results even more. Lastly, appointing the all the parish staff to serve as members of the Evangelization Team increases the access to, and intentional inclusion of, all the ministries throughout the parish (and school if applicable) and infuses them with a renewed energy and fruitfulness.

"At last I have found my vocation. In the heart of the Church, I will be Love!"  (St. Therese).
Active Catholics

Active Catholics are surprisingly not necessarily very different than inactive Catholics.

There are a few areas where one might notice some slight differences:

- Likely to believe in, experience, and look for the presence of God.
- Likely to attend weekly Mass.
- Likely to value the Sacraments and believe they actually do something.

We need to help our Active Catholics by supplying them with all the tools they might need to be the front line evangelizers they want to be in the regular daily life.
Ministers of First Impression

Every Catholic in the Parish needs to be a part of CCH because every single person contributes to the community being one of welcoming and joy, or not. Research shows that the people who regularly go to Church have an average of seven good friends in that same parish. The parish is a community for them that they want to be at.

The next time you walk into your own parish imagine being new to the parish, new to the Boston area, maybe even new to Catholicism. If you called the parish, emailed, or checked the website, what would you see and hear?

If you went to the parish for the first time, what would greet you? Who would meet you? Did anyone even acknowledge you? Is anyone even smiling? Would you be missed if you walked out and never came back? Did anything, or better anyone, really help you notice, understand, and value what is happening around you, naturally and supernaturally?

When we put ourselves in the shoes of someone who has not been in our parish ever or for a while, it is easy to see how everyone in the community is a “Minister of 1st Impression”. God made us to be relational, with Him and with others. We value relationships and community. We also live in a very visual culture where we absorb and judge what we see immediately. There is often not a second chance to make a good first impression.

Most people immediately list the Pastor, Priests and Deacons as the people who should make a good impression. That is true. But most people do not really get to have a long conversation of substance with the presider on the way in or out of Mass.

But what about the rest of the Professional Staff: the receptionist, director of religious education, coordinator of youth ministry, pastoral associate, principal, music director, maintenance staff? These are people with whom one could have a first conversation.

Let us not forget all the volunteer positions that most people actually do meet first and interact with regularly in and out of Church: members of the parish council, finance council, sacristan, catechists, coaches, scout leaders.

And lastly, yet just as importantly, there are those who are the members of the community in the community. The people who step up to serve and everyone sees them: the Eucharistic ministers, lectors, altar servers, greeters, ushers and collectors.....Everyone in the pews who greets one another at the sign of peace and then goes “in peace, to love and serve our Lord” has a role to play.

Visible Signs of Evangelism

Using a scale of 1 to 5, with "1" being excellent and "5" being very poor, estimate and evaluate some of the visible signs of evangelization as you look at your parish today. Enter the rating that you would provide your parish in the space to the left of each number.

_____9. The parish reaches out to non-Catholics and invites them to experience what being Catholic means.
_____10. The parish leadership follows up with and makes sure that those who want to become involved with the church are integrated into the ministries and organizations.
_____11. Homilies include evangelizing elements.
_____12. Evangelization appears as a primary mandate in the parish mission statement.
_____13. All parish ministries and operations are encountered to participate and collaborate in evangelization.
14. The parish supports a parish evangelization team

15. Every parish ministry and organization bases its mission on spreading the Good News of Jesus Christ.

16. The parish offers and supports programs on prayer, Sacred Scripture, small-faith sharing groups, small Christian communities, and other opportunities for parishioners to grow in their faith.

17. Individual Catholics exhibit the spirit of hospitality by welcoming others to become involved in parish ministries and activities, by bringing non-parishioners or inactive Catholics to church with them, and/or by taking the time to make sure others who express an interest becoming involved, actually become involved.

18. Hospitality is visible in all ministries, activities and operations.

19. The parish offers ministries that address the life transitions of its parishioners and other Catholics and people in the local area.

20. The parish offers programs, seminars and other events informing parishioners and others of the social teachings of the Church and encourages them to put them into practice.

22. Parishioners are involved in legislative advocacy to encourage civic responsibility in creating or changing legislation that is compassionate and just.

23. Parish leaders are involved in community organizing or community based economic development projects supported through agencies such as the Catholic Campaign for Human Development.

24. Global solidarity is encouraged in the parish community through twinning with a parish in another country or being involved in programs of global service and charity.

25. There is a tangible concern for the less fortunate in your parish, and that concern translates into action, such as (for example) defending and supporting fair and affordable housing in your neighborhood.

26. Regular attendance at Sunday mass is increasing.
Parish Staff Workshop on Evangelization #1

Overview: This workshop designed for Parish Staff can be offered as a 3 hour mini-retreat, a day of reflection, or even a working lunch. The interactive style of the workshop gives the Pastor and staff time to respond to the ideas presented and begin the process of planning how to respond to the upcoming campaign. This is just an outline to build onto and to be adapted to meet your Diocesan needs.

Goals: To help Parish Staffs recognize the role each of their positions plays in evangelization and to encourage parish staffs to take steps towards making there parish a place of evangelization for their entire community especially those who are returning to their faith. “Thus it is the whole Church that receives the mission to evangelize, and the work of each individual member is important for the whole.” -Evangelii Nuntiandi

Supplies: Bible, Catechism, and any catechetical pamphlets or handouts. Highly recommended to have “What the Church Teaches” Evangelization and other title available from OSV.

Session Format:
I) Opening Prayer:
   a. The opening prayer should include the participants. (Use an abbreviated Liturgy of the Hours, or another prayer form from the Catholic tradition can include the group)
   b. The opening prayer when possible should be lead by someone else other than the session leader.

II) Scripture Reading
   a. Matthew 28:19-20
   “Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and the name of the Son, and the name of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you, and lo, I am with you always, to the close of the age.”
      - How does your staff reflect a community that seeks to form disciples? How does your position add to the mission of the Church to preach the Gospel, nourish believers with the Sacraments, and call them to keep the commandments and grow in holiness?
   b. Mark 16:15
   “He said to them, ‘Go into the whole world and proclaim the gospel to every creature’”
      - How does your role in the parish proclaim the Gospel?

III) Catechesis
   a. Evangelization
      i. Definition:
      1. “to evangelize is first of all to bear witness, in a simple and direct way, to God revealed by Jesus Christ, in the Holy Spirit, to bear witness that in His Son God has loved the world - that in His Incarnate Word He has given being to all things and has called men to eternal life.” EV 26
2. What it means” Evangelization means bringing the Good News of Jesus into every human situation.-USCCB Go and Make Disciples, p. 2).
3. To evangelize we must first be evangelized. We must seek conversion.
   ii. Testimony: Have someone share a time when they shared the faith in word or deed.
   iii. Conversion within each of us.
       1. How can I grow in holiness?
       2. How can my position and role in the Parish help others encounter Christ?
   iv. Conversion within the Church.
       1. How does your parish help people encounter Christ?
       2. What are some obstacles your community has in encountering Christ in the everyday?
   b. CCC
   i. Para 905 “For lay people, "this evangelization . . . acquires a specific property and peculiar efficacy because it is accomplished in the ordinary circumstances of the world.”
   1. How can we help our community more readily share their faith?
   c. Church Documents
   i. Rd Paragraph 21 of Evangelii Nuntiandi, or have copies for the Staffs. Create some questions to help your parish inventory how they are doing.

IV) Small Faith Sharing (see attached pgs 20-21)

V) Discussion / Closing Prayer

“Go therefore and make disciples of all nations” – Matthew 28:19

Read the following quotes about evangelization & answer the questions on your own or in a group. Please be prepared to share your answers with others.

1) “it is the whole Church that receives the mission to evangelize, and the work of each individual member is important for the whole. The Church is an evangelizer, but she begins by being evangelized herself. She is the community of believers, the community of hope lived and communicated, the community of brotherly love, and she needs to listen unceasingly to what she must believe, to her reasons for hoping, to the new commandment of love.” – Paul VI, Evangeli Nuntiandi para 15

What does it mean to first be evangelized?
Where do you need to grow in your relationship with Christ so that you can better share Him with others?

2) Evangelization means bringing the Good News of Jesus into every human situation.

- USCCB Go and Make Disciples, p. 2

What human situations do I encounter that I could bring the Good News of Jesus to?
Are there certain situations that would difficult to share Christ with others? What do we do in those cases?
3) “Modern man listens more willingly to witnesses than to teachers, and if he does listen to teachers, it is because they are witnesses.” -Paul VI, Evangelii Nuntiandi para 41.

What does it mean to be witness? What responsibilities do I have to be a witness to Christ, as a parent, as a spouse, as an employee, as a citizen, as a parishioner?

4) “Always be willing to give a reason for your hope to anyone who asks” 1 Peter 3:15

How would I respond to someone who asked the reason for my hope?
Do I trust in God enough to live a hope-filled life?

5) “You are the light of the world; a city set on a mountain cannot be hidden. Nor do they light a lamp then put it under a bushel basket; it is set on a lampstand, where it gives light to all in the house. Just so your light must shine before others” Matt 5:15

At baptism we received the light of Christ, and we have been called to share it with others. How do you see your baptism connected to this call to evangelize?

Usher/Greeter Program Suggestions

In an article titled “Mass Begins in the Parking Lot” the author Paul Bernier, states “It is the function of welcoming that gives ushers an opportunity to influence from the outset the quality of the Eucharistic celebration. And this is the most significant service they can possibly render” (Emmanuel Magazine May/June 2007).

Parishioners and visitors might be greeted, by name if possible, with a warm handshake and smile by greeters, ushers and/or the pastor or associates. Greeters might wear name-tags and be men, women, seniors or youth. Young people of all ages might also be greeted as appropriate at their level with a handshake, a thumbs up, a “give me a five” or a closed fist.

Note: Many of the youth of your parish would likely make excellent greeters! And they would appreciate being asked to take on this important role.

Thoughts for successful programs:

- Have one person as head of your Usher/Greeter program and designate one person to be responsible for each weekend Mass to foster good lines of communications. Be sure to coordinate and ask your existing ushers and collectors to join in.

- The head person at each Mass should assign greeters/ushers to cover specific entrances, two or three at an entrance, and should rotate assignments from week to week. Experience show that those that sign up to be greeters shy away and loose interest absent specific assignments and encouragement.

- Head Usher/Greeters might conduct periodic orientation and training sessions, especially in the beginning, so that all know what is expected of them. For tips see pamphlet “Ministries of Hospitality Greeters & Ushers” by Karen Sue Smith from the National Pastoral Life Center (got to www.nplc.org and click on ‘pamphlets.’)

- Head Usher/Greeters might foster on good communications and encouragement, especially in person, but also via email and by phone. This will help each usher/greeter be certain of their assignments and role.

“Do not abandon yourself to despair. We are the Easter people and Hallelujah is our song” (John Paul II).
Usher/Greeter Program Suggestions

There’s three simple things your collectors can do to make your parish a more welcoming one:

Smile. Make Eye Contact. Say “Thank You.”

Help prepare collectors, or at least provide some system to make sure they use all three welcoming gestures when they interact with all parishioners (new and not-so-new).

Thoughts for successful programs:

• Place a laminated sign inside the basket so that the collector can see it. The sign reads simply: Smile! Make eye contact! Say “Thank you.”

• Remind them of the Smile/Make eye contact/Say Thank You gestures when collectors come for their baskets.

• Form a mini-ministry so that the same collectors are used frequently enough so that they can practice these welcoming gestures.

• And remember to say THANK YOU to the collectors for their service!

“I hope to have communion with the people, that is the most important thing.” (John Paul II)
Ushers, Hospitality Team & Greeters (Tips)

USHERS, HOSPITALITY TEAM AND GREETERS
People may have a hard time describing a "welcoming parish" in words, but they know it when they are in one. Welcoming parishes have Greeters who smile and hold the door open. Welcoming parishes have people who ask if you are new, and if you are, they shake your hand and introduce themselves. Welcoming parishes have Ushers who ask if you need help finding a pew. People in welcoming parishes might point out special seating to make it comfortable for someone with a disability. A welcoming parish treats everyone if they are special and an important person in this faith community. Most often, the first people that display this warm welcome are the Ushers and Greeters who come in contact with the people who walk into a church for the first time.

Greeters Come from the Community
Organize a meeting with the parish Ushers, Hospitality Team and Greeters. Offer information about the demographics of the parish: age, race, ethnicity. Discuss whether or not your parish should display a similar demographic among those who welcome the parishioners every week. Would it be helpful to have families be the greeters so that children of all ages would recognize someone of their own age in this ministry of hospitality?

Training Workshop
Provide training sessions for Usher/Hospitality Team/Greeters at different times of the day and week to reach 100% of the ministers of hospitality. Offer them a small handbook or manual with the best practices for Ushers/Hospitality Team/Greeters. Provide each one in this ministry with a parish directory so that they begin to connect names and faces of all the parishioners.

Networking for New People
As Ushers, Hospitality Team and Greeters introduce themselves to someone that they are not familiar with, they should also introduce the new people to another parishioner who is nearby. Find a way to make a connection between the two people: Do they have children the same age? Are they in the same neighborhood?

Open Doors
It may seem overly simple to say, but the most important part of this ministry is smiling and caring for the needs of the parishioners. In cold weather, choose one person to stand outside and hold the door open so people can hurry into the warmth. With an outside "station" someone is always attentive to job of welcoming people at the entrance.

Be a Role Model
The newcomers to your parish will be watching other people for behavioral clues of when and how to move in church. You become a role model as they look to you and follow your behaviors. Your prayerful gestures will set a tone for anyone who enters church (bow, genuflect, prayer posture). Your voice and communication skills tell people more than just the meaning of your words: speak quietly, use a friendly tone of voice, make eye-contact, and most of all, smile.

(Catholics Come Home Georgia)
What is Evangelization

According to the official teachings of the Church, the Catechism of the Catholic Church, Evangelization is “the proclamation of Christ and His Gospel by word and the testimony of life, in fulfillment of Christ’s command.”

The Catechism goes on to say that every person has a special mission to fulfill through evangelization. “For lay people, ‘this evangelization … acquires a specific property and peculiar efficacy because it is accomplished in the ordinary circumstances of the world’” (LG 35 § 1, § 2).

Lay people have a very special witness to live out in the world through their words, actions, relationships, family, and work.
“This witness of life, however, is not the sole element in the apostolate; the true apostle is on the lookout for occasions of announcing Christ by word, either to unbelievers … or to the faithful” (AA 6 § 3; cf. AG 15).

We are not alone though. We have the Church and the witness of those who have gone before us. Walking in the footsteps of the Most Blessed Virgin Mary, the Apostles, Martyrs, Pastors, Doctors of the Church, Virgins, and Holy Men and Women, Christians are called and inspired to proclaim the Gospel (the Good News) of Jesus Christ for all men and women to hear, through the witness of their holy lives, by word and deed.

Accompanied by the intercessory prayers of this “Great Cloud of Witnesses,” Christians everywhere are invited to know, love and serve Jesus Christ on this pilgrimage of life, hoping to be with Him forever, and to be an instrument of salvation for others, to share in this blessed reality.

Yes, You can evangelize!

“It is the whole Church that receives the mission to evangelize, and the work of each individual member is important for the whole” (EN 15).

What is needed is a shift in the way Catholics think about and view evangelization.

The Church must help all the faithful to re-think their own participation in the life and mission of the Church: Evangelization is the “essential mission of the Church”

Each of us has been equipped by our Baptism to participate in this mission and give witness to the Faith.

“Faith is strengthened when it is given to others” (Redemptoris Missio, 2)
Top Five Myths about Evangelization

That’s a Protestant thing
Most Catholics today simply think that this is something other Christians do. The word “evangelization” for some of us might conjure up images of TV preachers or people going door-to-door. But in reality, Catholics are supposed to be the ones evangelizing in every aspect of daily life!

“All Christians by the example of their lives and the witness of their word, wherever they live, have an obligation to manifest the new man, which they have put on in Baptism and to reveal the power of the Holy Spirit by whom they were strengthened at Confirmation.” (Ad Gentes)

Priests and nuns are supposed to do that.
(On the flip side, there are some priests and nuns who think that lay people are the ones who are supposed to be talking about the faith in their families, with friends, at work, and in the world.)

Every single Catholic, whatever his or her vocation, is supposed to be involved in the work of evangelization. The roles for the Priest, the religious brother and sister, and the lay faithful all compliment one another in such a beautiful design by God so that there is no area of life that would not be evangelizing and showing us the Good News. Every relationship we could possibly have in our lives is supposed be an expression and example of God’s enduring Love for us.

Together, the praying, welcoming, evangelizing, forming, and serving parish community, working with the graces of the Sacraments, could be one of the most powerful messages and experiences of the God’s own Love shown to us!
You need to have a degree to do that sort of thing.

Many Catholics feel they do not know enough about the faith to be able to explain it to others. Ongoing formation and education is a great way for all of us to deepen our practice and understanding of the faith.

However, this should not be an excuse for anyone to not evangelize. Each of us has been created by God to give witness.

Each of us has been equipped in and through our Baptism for this witness. Each of us can continue to be strengthened by growing in virtue and by receiving the Sacraments to give this witness better each day.

“The witness of a Christian life and good works done in a supernatural spirit has great power to draw men to the faith and to God” (Apostolicam Actuositatem).

People should keep their faith to themselves.

Most of us have heard the old stereotype that we should not talk about faith or politics. These are private matters, not up for public discussion, not really to be talked about ever. We would not want to offend someone with different views by sharing what we believe.

In our society today we have been swayed to believe that these important areas of life should be kept separate and private. This has resulted in many of us not remembering the faith or how to share it. This has also left many people feeling alone and isolated.

We have been created by God to be in relationship with Him and one another. Some of us have tried to just live a “horizontal” faith where we are more concerned with helping people and not so much the Father, the Son, or the Holy Spirit. Others of us have tried to just live a “vertical” faith where we are more concerned with personal faith and not so much helping our brothers and sisters. The two “beams of the Cross” are inseparable. We need to be carrying both. We need to be growing in our faith personally with Jesus and sharing our faith publicly with others at the same time. Right now, today, is a great time to look for the opportunity to do both.
Someone else will do it.

“There is no such thing as coincidence in God’s Providence.” – Pope John Paul II

If you come across any other souls today, then it was for a reason. Did you ignore them or smile at them? Drop eye contact or say “hi”?

In actuality, most people do not share their faith because they are uncomfortable sharing their faith. There are usually some legitimate obstacles in their way. You can get over or around almost any type of obstacle when someone shows you how. We usually need the help of God and another person or two.

“You are not the sum of your weaknesses, you are the sum of the Father’s love for you” (JPII, WYD Toronto).

The reality is that most of us do not know our faith well and do not know how to share our faith well. Everyone we know is overwhelmed and too busy; priests, mothers, fathers, teens, me. We don’t pause to pray and reflect to understand the nature and mission of the Church and our need to participate. Someone else needs you, your witness, your faith, and God today.

You are not here by accident but by Our Father’s design. Try praying a bit more. Try greeting people a bit more. Try helping people a bit more. Try sharing God’s own Love with others a bit more. Try telling them about God’s Love a bit more. Try inviting them back to Church.

We all have an important mission to fulfill here on earth. Someday, we will all find out what is was and how we did.

“And he gave some as apostles, others as prophets, others as evangelists, others as pastors and teachers, to equip the holy ones for the work of ministry, for building up the body of Christ, until we all attain to the unity of faith and knowledge of the Son of God, to mature manhood, to the extent of full stature of Christ” (Ephesians 4:11-13).
The New Evangelization

Yet for some, the Good News has become “stale,” the “vision has faded,” and the “promises seem empty or unconnected to their lives” (Wuerl, 4).

“What we call the New Evangelization is all about retelling the story, this time awakening a sense of meeting Jesus” (Wuerl, 4).

In our world today there are actually three situations for evangelization that we might find ourselves in:

1. Those who have never heard the Gospel.
   “Peoples, groups, and sociocultural contexts in which Christ and His Gospel are not known, or which lack Christian communities sufficiently mature to be able to incarnate the faith in their own environment and proclaim it to other groups” (RM, 33).

2. Those who are in need of ongoing conversion and deepening of the faith.
   “…Christian communities with adequate and solid ecclesial structures. They are fervent in their faith and in Christian living. They bear witness to the Gospel in their surroundings and have a sense of commitment to the universal mission” (RM, 33).

3. Those who have been baptized but whose faith has grown cold.
   “There is an intermediate situation, particularly in countries with ancient Christian roots, and occasionally in younger Churches as well, where entire groups of the baptized have lost a living sense of the faith, or even no longer consider themselves members of the Church, and live a life far removed from Christ and His Gospel. In this case what is needed is a ‘new evangelization’ or a ‘re-evangelization’” (RM, 33).

“There are numerous people, particularly in the Western world, who have already heard of Jesus. Our call is to stir up again and rekindle in the midst of their daily life and concrete situation, a new awareness and familiarity with Jesus. We are called not just to announce, but to adapt our approach so as to attract and to urge an entire generation to find again the uncomplicated, genuine and tangible treasure of friendship with Jesus” (Wuerl, 12).

“Pope Benedict XVI used the word ‘re-propose’ to describe the New Evangelization. Somehow in what we do and how we express our faith, we have to be able to re-propose our belief in Christ and His Gospel for a hearing among those who are convinced that they already know the faith and it holds no interest for them. We have to invite them to hear it all over again, this time for the first time” (Wuerl, 4).
When we take a step back and reflect on our own spiritual pilgrimage in this world, there appears to be, in a certain sense, a process of Evangelization.
When we take a step back and reflect on our own spiritual pilgrimage in this world, there appears to be, in a certain sense, a process of Evangelization.

Our Father exists on His own and out of an overflowing Love He reaches out to us before we are even aware of Him. Someone in our life, a parent or grandparent, teacher, coach or friend, provides us the witness of a believer. We are then invited and welcomed to explore where this joy and confident sense of goodness, beauty, unity or truth comes from. We see and hear something that really resonates with us as attainable and sensible “Good News” from the other conflicts, insecurities, doubt and chaos we find in our lives. We accept this in a way we have not before. We begin to look and contemplate who Jesus Christ, True Man and True God, might really be. We choose to begin to explore the Church, whom He calls His Bride, and ask our questions and explore who She is, what She does and why She does it even still today. We want to become an adopted sibling to Jesus and a desire grows within us to know even more. We also begin to want to live out our Baptism more fully as a disciple. We recognize a different desire and fruitfulness from when we receive the Sacraments more often. We experience real growth and progress. We want to help others with their natural and supernatural needs. We want to become who God wants us to be and do what He made us to do.

Then, just when we might be getting comfortable, God calls and invites us to begin the cycle again, not in a repetitive way, but in order to grow even more deeply in love with Him and in order to share the incredible way of life we have been given with others in an even greater way ...

Witness and Prayer

Authentic Witness. Personal Testimony. Life of Prayer

“Pray as though everything depended on God. Work as though everything depended on you” - St. Augustine

If we want to understand how to evangelize, we must look to the experts who have gone before us and done the best job at it - the saints. How did Saints evangelize?

Saints know who they are.
Saints know and love God. Saints know “whose” they are.
Saints understand their vocation.
Saints are not afraid to become fully who they are.

“If you become who you are, you will set the world ablaze” (St. Catherine of Siena).

“For God did not give us a spirit of cowardice but rather of power and love and self-control” (2 Timothy 1:7).

With those foundations in place, the saints, seeking to live for Christ in all that they do, find innumerable ways to bear witness to the love of Jesus.

64. Evangelization
Authentic Witness

“Modern man listens more willingly to witnesses than to teachers, and if he does listen to teachers it is because he is a witness first” (Pope Paul VI).

We must first be willing to strive to live the Christian life to the fullest as Children of God for our heavenly Father, our own good and the good of others.

“And may the world of our time, which is searching, sometimes with anguish, sometimes with hope, be enabled to receive the Good News not from evangelizers who are dejected, discouraged, impatient or anxious, but from ministers of the Gospel whose lives glow with fervor, who have first received the joy of Christ, who are willing to risk their lives so that the kingdom may be proclaimed and the Church established in the midst of the world” (EN, 80).

Personal Testimony

“Always being willing to give a reason for your hope to anyone who asks” (1 Peter 3:15).

Our faithful witness will lead, one day, to our giving testimony of the great things the Lord has done for us.

“…even the finest witness will prove ineffective in the long run if it is not explained, justified-what Peter called always having ‘your answer ready for people when they ask you the reason for the hope that you all have’…the Good News proclaimed by the witness of life sooner or later has to be proclaimed by the word of life” (EN, 22).

Daily living presents many challenges to our identity: “[the Church] she is the People of God immersed in the world, and often tempted by idols, and she always needs to hear the proclamation of the ‘mighty works of God’ which converted her to the Lord; she always needs to be called together afresh by Him and reunited” (EN, 15).
Pope Benedict notes that Don Didimo, a parish priest of Bassano del Grappa, wrote: “‘Jesus preached by day, by night he prayed.’ With these few words, he wished to say: Jesus had to acquire the disciples from God. The same is always true. We ourselves cannot gather men. We must acquire them by God for God. All methods are empty without the foundation of prayer. The word of the announcement must always be drenched in an intense life of prayer” (Address to Catechists and Religion Teachers, 2000).

Everything we do as Catholics begins with and relies upon prayer.

What are some ways that we can make sure that CCH is covered in prayer?

• Tap into the current prayer teams

Most parishes already have groups that are already praying. When was the last time they were all focused and asked to pray for the same intention? Ask them to pray for the New Evangelization and for Catholics to come home.

• Gather the CCH Boston Prayer Intention Cards

Gather these intentions and offer them at Mass. Explain to the community “who” we are praying for and ask them to join together to pray for Catholics everywhere to Come Home this Lent.

• Include some aspect of CCH in the Prayers of the Faithful.

Samples have been included in the parish procedural guide and on the website.

• Get Creative.

Use prayer trees, prayer request phone and email hotlines, utilize the families and youth to pray in gathered and non-gathered methods.
1. Really want to pray better.
   The story is told that the porter who traveled with Ignatius of Loyola and his Jesuit brothers when the Society of Jesus was first formed admired how the men stopped frequently and prayed. Summoning his courage one day he approached Ignatius and asked if he, the porter, could learn to pray so fervently and pray with the men. Ignatius replied the very desire to pray was itself prayer.

2. Make prayer a habit.
   Set aside time each day that won’t easily be pre-empted by other things: get up a few minutes earlier in the morning, or take time before bed to devote to prayer. If you build it into your day, it’s likely that you will be faithful to your promise. Tape a favorite prayer of Scripture verse to your bathroom mirror: brush your teeth, say your prayer.

   Saint Paul tells us: Train yourself for devotion, for, while physical training is of limited value, devotion is valuable in every respect, since it holds a promise of life both for the present and for the future. (1 Timothy 4:7)

3. Use the time you have.
   If you drive to work alone, use your morning commute for prayer. No radio! There are CDs of the Rosary available to assist your effort. If you take public transportation, download a scripture reflection or meditation. It’s amazing how we can block out distractions when we focus on God!

4. Make a joyful noise!
   Saint Augustine was right: those who sing pray twice. Do you have a favorite hymn? Don’t wait to hear it at Mass on Sunday, make it part of your prayer. Think about the words as you sing. Sing what you believe; believe what you sing.

5. ACTS of prayer.
   This simple acronym describes different kinds of prayer:
   - Adoration – we pray to give glory to God
   - Contrition – we pray to ask God’s forgiveness
   - Thanksgiving: we thank God for the favors and blessings in our life
   - Supplication – we pray our intentions, asking God for help.

   We’re probably most familiar with contrition and supplication, but try making adoration and thanksgiving part of daily prayer: This day, God, I am struck by the awesomeness of your creation. This day, God, I thank you especially for ________________.
Invitation and Welcome

All the ministries and moments of the daily life of the Parish and School need to be seen as a renewed “opportunity for evangelization”. Every chance to invite and then welcome someone must not pass us by.

Some main areas of “focus” could be:

The “Curb” - Before

Now is the perfect time to make a small investment in the outside of the Church property.

- Keep it clean and crisp.
- Plant flowers.
- Paint.
- Post attractive signage outside and inside the Church.
- Let the local press and your parishioners know about CCH and that everyone is welcome home.

The “Doorway” – During

Now is the perfect time to intentionally reflect and redesign how you would want someone to enter and leave your parish home.

- Use the CCH posters.
- Set up special displays and tables to welcome people.
- Have special Parish Evangelization Team “Welcomers” who smile and welcome everyone to Liturgies and Events.
- Use nametags with first names and actually have everyone meet and greet three new people before Mass.
- Have Prayer cards, Prayer Intention Cards, and In-pew cards.
- Have neatly organized materials at the doors including upcoming opportunities.
- Thank everyone for coming and invite them to the next event at the same time.

The “Home” Follow-up – After

- Now is the perfect time to decide how you want to keep in touch with your parish family.
- Send a letter to every parishioner from the Priests and the Evangelization Team about CCH.
- Have a plan for following up with new comers including a special email, a phone call, and then a special written invitation.
- Give out gift bags and goodies.
- Look for opportunities to hold special events
  - Celebrations and Blessings for Feast Days, Seasonal events, Ethnic events, et cetera.
  - Outreach and highlighting of CYO, Scouting, WYD for the young in order to include their families.
  - Events to introduce those receiving Sacraments to the whole parish.
  - Coffee and Doughnut Sunday with welcome, introductions, and 5-minute teaching by a guest speaker.
  - Parish potluck meals.
  - Parish-wide service event.
  - Tour of the Church.
  - Parish Orientation and dinner.
  - Faith-sharing one time and ongoing events.
Returning Catholics and the Weight Watchers Model

Balancing the need for individual attention and desire for anonymity

Weight Watchers meetings work for so many people because as soon as you walk in the door, you know you will not be judged, you will be accepted no matter how well you are losing weight and you know everyone is there for the same reason. In this environment, people do not mind identifying themselves even though they would normally prefer anonymity. Weight Watchers knows how to balance a desire for anonymity with the need for individual attention. What lessons can today’s parish can learn from Weight Watchers?

Larger parishes: Catholic parishes with more than a few hundred units are generally very well suited to providing the anonymity that most people desire. But, how well do we provide the individual attention that people also need? For better or worse, today’s returning Catholics want to feel like they got something out of Mass and that there is something the parish can do for them before they will ever consider becoming a parish member and long before most of them will ever approach the pastoral staff to introduce themselves. Help the returnees to feel special, like honored guests, while not singling them out such that they feel embarrassed and that all eyes are focused on them.

Smaller parishes: What about smaller and/or rural parishes where “everybody knows everybody?” Although everyone may know where Jane attended second grade, who her first boyfriend was and that she twists her hair when she is nervous, it is unlikely that the broader community knows what in life gives Jane her greatest joy and what troubles her heart more than anything else in this world. Christian communities are about providing the space where we can be human with one another, where it is safe to let God and others touch that which matters most to us, both the joyful and the painful. Whereas larger parishes may need to figure out ways to provide individual attention while not overstepping the desire for anonymity, smaller parishes may need to do the opposite: help returnees feel like they are part of the group, part of the community that is gathered and not simply an individual who has not gone to Mass the past six years.

Every parish will ultimately need to decide for itself the best way to balance the need each of us has to be able to come to Mass and participate communally and relatively anonymously in the liturgy with the need to be touched by God and by other human beings, uniquely and individually.

Presenting the Gospel

Implicit Evangelization: The Actions

St. Francis is often credited with saying, “You may be the only Gospel someone might ever see.”

We must gain a “new impetus in Christian living, making it the force which inspires our journey of faith. Conscious of the Risen Lord’s presence among us, we ask ourselves today the same question put to Peter in Jerusalem immediately after his Pentecost speech: ‘what must we do?’ (Acts 2:37)” (Pope John Paul II, Novo Millennio Ineunte, 2).

“To be true disciples of the Lord, believers must bear witness to their faith, and ‘witnesses testify not only with words, but also with their lives’” (JPll, Ecclesia in America, 26).

Explicit Evangelization: The Words

Proclaim Jesus

- You are loved with an everlasting love!!!!
- “Evangelization will also always contain – as the foundation, center, and at the same time, summit of its dynamism – a clear proclamation that, in Jesus Christ, the Son of God made man, who died and rose from the dead, salvation is offered to all men, as a gift of God’s grace and mercy” (EN, 26).

Each of us has been given the ability and strength to present both the overall story of the Good News and the specific reason for our hope with examples from our own lives.

Four Point Gospel:

God Loves You and created you to be in relationship with Him and one another. He gives us the freedom to Love Him.

We abuse that freedom and turn away from God and His Plan. This is Sin. Sin breaks the relationship we have with God and one another. We are stuck in Sin and Death.

Jesus Christ, fully Man and fully God, was born, lived, died, and rose again in order to conquer Sin and Death and show us the way to Eternal Life with God.

Do you want to Follow Him.

“For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son and whoever believes in Him will not perish but have eternal life.” John 3:16
Accepting the Gospel and Conversion

Conversion

- “Proclamation of the Word of God has Christian conversion as its aim: a complete and sincere adherence to Christ and His Gospel through faith” (RM 46).

- Pope Benedict writes: “The Greek word for converting means to rethink—to question one’s own and common way of living; to allow God to enter into the criteria of one’s life; to not merely judge according to the current opinions. Thereby, to convert means: not to live as all the others live, not do what all do, not feel justified in dubious, ambiguous, evil actions just because others do the same; begin to see one’s life through the eyes of God; thereby looking for the good, even if uncomfortable; not aiming at the judgment of the majority, of men, but on the justice of God—in other words: to look for a new style of life, a new life” (Address to Catechists and Religion Teachers, 2000).

Six Signs someone is thinking about coming back to the Church...

1. Questions   The most common sign is when someone begins to ask questions about God, good and evil, or the meaning of life. A lot of people in our society have lost that sense of meaning. They begin to ask, “What is my life about? Why do I do what I do? Is there any purpose in all of this?” As a parent, spouse, sibling or friend, your role is not to restore that meaning, but to help the person find meaning for him or herself. You can do that by active listening. Non-threatening comments such as, “It sounds like you’re really searching...” will encourage the person to talk in a more open manner. You don’t have to offer solutions or answers. Offer your opinion only when asked.

2. Memories   Reminiscing about Catholic school, nuns, priests, or parish activities is another sign someone may be thinking about returning to the faith. Sometimes people will recall childhood devotions to Our Lady or the saints. Memories of music, incense, or some special liturgy will surface. Don’t be afraid to share your own memories. You might want to suggest revisiting a childhood parish together or seek out a priest or religious who had a profound impact on the person. If remembering takes a negative turn, you don’t have to be defensive. The person may be justified in his or her anger. Sometimes, talking about a bad experience can help put it in perspective. If possible encourage the person to separate anger toward a person from anger at the Church and the Sacraments. It wasn’t the Church that caused the pain. It was a person connected to the Church. If a person is open to praying with you, ask the Holy Spirit for healing of memories.

3. Reading   Many fallen away Catholics read their way back to the Church. It’s a good idea to keep Catholic books, magazines, newspapers and even your parish bulletin in places where family members and friends can pick them up. If there’s something particular that you think might be of interest, recommend it to family members and friends. One woman sent books on Dorothy Day and Edith Stein to her sister who was struggling with how she perceived that the Church treats women.

4. Current Events  Catholic news events can trigger interest in some people. Make sure you’re up to date on Papal visits, Marian apparitions, Vatican announcements and local news about Catholic people and events. Even the recent scandal was a great opportunity to explain to people why you are still a Catholic! When discussing any aspect of Catholic news it’s a good idea to emphasize the universality of the Church. Unlike other Christian denominations that tend to attract people with similar interests and backgrounds, the Catholic Church numbers one billion people with different cultural, intellectual, and socioeconomic backgrounds. As James Joyce said, the Catholic Church means, “Here comes everybody!”

5. Major Life Events  Illness, death, divorce, the birth of a baby, a job loss or transfer, kids growing into their teenage years, moving to a new home are all life events that can trigger a desire to return to the Church. Sometimes people are afraid the Church will reject them if they have been gone for a long time. Some think they are excommunicated. You might find yourself in a position of helping someone get accurate information about where they stand with God and the Church.

6. God’s Presence  The real presence of Jesus Christ in the Eucharist is often a factor in bringing people back. Invite people to come with you for family funerals, weddings, baptisms, First Communions, Confirmations, Ash Wednesday, May crownings, and Mass on Christmas and Easter. It’s hard for people to go to church by themselves. Be an inviter. If they don’t want to go to Mass, invite them to parish social, cultural or educational events. Keep the lines of communication open. Radiate God’s love to everyone you meet. Let the Holy Spirit work through you. Before long, you’ll begin to see that people will be attracted to the Church because they want the faith, the love and the peace you possess.

Becoming Part of the Church Community

Community of the Church

- “Conversion and Baptism give entry into a Church already in existence or require the establishment of new communities which confess Jesus as Savior and Lord” (RM, 48).

- “This is part of God’s plan, for it pleases Him ‘to call human beings to share in His own life not merely as individuals, without any unifying bond between them, but rather to make them into a people in which His children, who had been widely scattered, might be gathered in unity’” (RM, 48).
St Patrick’s Cathedral, New York, Saturday, 19 April 2008 (Pope Benedict XVI).
  “The first has to do with the stained glass windows, which flood the interior with mystic light. From the outside, those windows are dark, heavy, even dreary. But once one enters the church, they suddenly come alive; reflecting the light passing through them, they reveal all their splendor. Many writers – here in America we can think of Nathaniel Hawthorne – have used the image of stained glass to illustrate the mystery of the Church herself. It is only from the inside, from the experience of faith and ecclesial life, that we see the Church as she truly is: flooded with grace, resplendent in beauty, adorned by the manifold gifts of the Spirit. It follows that we, who live the life of grace within the Church’s communion, are called to draw all people into this mystery of light.”

The commercials are likely to have 3 effects on the average, active Catholic:

1. Catholic pride and enthusiasm increases. The commercials affirm Catholicism and all components of our faith. Seeing our faith depicted favorably in the popular media helps Catholics feel good about their faith, bolstering self-esteem and good will.

2. They feel more comfortable talking about Catholicism. The commercials will be noticed by virtually everyone and they are likely to get people talking. Just like non-football fans still chat about unusual Super-bowl outcomes, so too will everyone be talking about the commercials. One caveat here: people will talk about the commercials, but not necessarily about their faith. We’ll have to help our typical Catholic take that step.

3. They become more interested in learning about their faith, growing closer to God and to others. Whereas returning Catholics do not immediately flock to adult faith formation opportunities, active parishioners do. Why? Active Catholics have been going to Mass every Sunday for years and years of their lives. However, the commercials often foster a new awareness in active Catholics that there is much more to know about their faith.
Fostering Conversion: Building on Enthusiasm & Desire for Catechesis

Have a favorite program? Always been wanting to try “X program” in your parish? Now is the time to schedule it! Just before the commercials air, during Lent, and summer will be a unique time for faith formation in the parish. Some of the topics of particular interest to Catholics in light of CCH:

- Understanding the Mass
- Scripture, Tradition and role of the Magisterium
- Role of Eucharist for Catholic Faith
- Role of Reconciliation for Catholic Faith
- Why Catholics Have Annulments
- Prayer in the Catholic Tradition
- How to Read and Understand the Bible

Recommendation for faith formation on these topics: Parishioners are likely to come to one stand-alone session as opposed to a multi-session “program.” Even if you offer sessions on multiple topics in light of CCH, we recommend you offer each session as a unique, one-time opportunity. Offering the same session on different dates and times also helps them know this is a topic in which they ought to try to participate.

Helping Catholics Share Their Faith: Evangelization 101

Catholics feel more comfortable sharing their faith after the following takes place:

First, they must find their own answers to these questions:

1. Why do I go to Mass?
2. Why am I Catholic?
3. What do I know about Jesus?

While every single Mass exposes Catholics to answers to these questions, they must be given the opportunity, space and encouragement to answer these questions for themselves. Until they can articulate this in their own words and based on their own life experiences and faith journey, the typical Catholic is unlikely to talk to anyone (not even family, friends or co-workers) about their faith.

Second, they must be assured that they do know enough about the faith to talk to others.

If asked, the typical Catholic will say they feel uncomfortable talking to others about their faith because they don’t feel like they know enough about Catholicism. They don’t feel “qualified” like the priests and staff who receive formal training.

To counter this misconception, Catholics need to be told in a variety of venues and with a variety of methods that the most important part of our faith to share with others is what they know extremely well – the Creed. The acronym G.A.S.P can even teach them an easy way to talk about the basic story of our faith:

(Catholics feel more comfortable sharing their faith after the following takes place:)

G: God Everyone has some idea of God they can share. God who created everything. God who said I AM WHO AM.

A: Actual Sin Without focusing on various doctrines of sin, everyone knows and can share how they personally have done “stuff” that they wish they had not done and wishes they had done some things they did not do. We all have actual experience with our less-than-best-self, regardless of the language a person feels comfortable using to describe this.

S: Savior As we help people articulate what they know about Jesus, (see above) they become more comfortable speaking about this core part of our faith. Most people have a special affinity for 1-2 aspects of the Jesus event, whether that is the incarnation, Jesus’ life and ministry, his passion and death, or the resurrection. Help people identify what part of the Jesus event they really love, and they will be more comfortable talking about our Savior.

P: People of Pentecost The story does not end at the resurrection. We believe that God resides within and between us, that we all must journey together, as church, as community, as People of Pentecost, towards the end of time and life eternal. Once Catholics are reminded of “P” they can talk about this too.

Third, they must have opportunities to practice.

We don’t allow doctors to get their license until they get lots and lots and lots of practice in their specialty area. We don’t expect parents to know the best way to get their newborn to stop crying without lots of opportunities to learn from experience. Similarly, how can we expect Catholics to feel comfortable talking about their faith if we don’t give them chances to practice doing this?

How can Catholics practice talking about their faith? Assuming that that they have done steps one and two above, ask people to start with small and safe situations, practice these on multiple occasions until they feel comfortable and then build to “riskier” situations of approaching a friend, family or co-worker after the commercials air or being approached by someone who knows they are Catholic.

Safer situations include but are not limited to: coming to church and practice sharing What they Know about Jesus (for example) with someone else at church; sharing Why they Go to Mass for 10 minutes with their family at home before the next Sunday Mass; calling a friend on the phone and asking to practice sharing with them for 10 minutes about Why they are Catholic.

Any practice opportunity needs advance preparation on the part of parish staff or volunteers – you cannot simply ask people to go home and talk to family about the Catholic faith without giving them very concrete, user-friendly guidelines.

Catechesis and Ongoing Formation

“Evangelization means bringing the Good News of Jesus into every human situation”
(USCCB, p. 2).

Resources for Catechesis and Ongoing Formation:

Resources For Returning Catholics

For Catechetical Leaders & Parish Staffs

Each parish forms the point of entry for individuals and families to engage their faith, celebrate the sacraments, and be nourished as the people of God. Whether long-time, fallen-away, or new inquirers to the Catholic faith each parish serves as "the primary experience of the Church" (NDC, 60).

Five Key Themes

Five themes have been identified by priests and catechetical leaders in the Diocese of Phoenix as keys to helping Catholics return to the faith. Parishes are encouraged to provide resources for the five themes. Here are the themes and some suggested resources.

1. Sacrament of Confession
The Sacrament of Confession is “the form most expressive of reconciliation with God and with the Church” (CCC 1484) and is therefore the most appropriate to focus on when individuals are seeking to return back to their Catholic faith.
Recommended Pamphlets:
- Our Sunday Visitor "How to Make a Good Confession"
- St. Joseph Communications "How to Make a Good Confession"
- Audio CD’s: Available from Lighthouse Catholic Media (Español)
  - "The Healing Power of Confession" by Scott Hahn
  - "Confession” by Fr. Larry Richards

2. Understanding the Mass
Mass is “the source and summit of the Christian life” (LG 11). Helping individuals understand and more fully participate in the rich beauty of the liturgical life of the Church is an ever-present task among all Catholics.
Recommended Pamphlets:
- Our Sunday Visitor "Getting More out of the Mass"
- St. Joseph Communications "Why Does the Catholic Church Teach That?"
- Audio CD’s: Available from Lighthouse Catholic Media (Español)
  - "The Mass Explained" by Fr. Larry Richards
  - "Understanding the Eucharist” by Scott Hahn
3. Prayer
“Prayer is the living relationship of the children of God with their Father who is good beyond measure, with his Son Jesus Christ and with the Holy Spirit” (CCC 2565). This living relationship is not with an abstract nor an idea, but rather a personal encounter with God Himself and is a necessary component of all Christian life.
Recommended Pamphlets:
- Our Sunday Visitor "How to Pray as Catholic"
- Audio CD’s: Available from Lighthouse Catholic Media (Español)
  - "Seven Pillars of Catholic Spirituality" by Matthew Kelly

4. Marriage & Family Life
“The family is the original cell of social life” (CCC 2207). Therefore marriage is a central consideration when individuals approach the Sacrament of Confession and great care should be taken to help them understand the beliefs of the Church in regards to marriage and family life.
Recommended Pamphlets:
- USCCB "Married Love and the Gift of Life"
- Audio CD’s: Available from Lighthouse Catholic Media (Español)
  - "The Gift of Human Sexuality" by Fr. Thomas Loya
  - "Marriage & Annulments" by Bishop Joseph Perry

5. Scripture & Tradition
“Be imitators of me, as I am of Christ...hold fast to the traditions just as I have handed them on to you” (1 Corinthians 11:1-2). Sacred Scripture and Tradition make up the deposit of faith (DV 10) and individuals should be introduced to the beauty and power of God’s word and the richness of sacred tradition.
Recommended Pamphlets:

Discipleship, Service, and Vocations

Disciples in Mission

“The Mass is Ended, Go in Peace.” Through faith and Baptism we are immersed into the inner life of Trinity and the communion of the Church. Each Sunday at Holy Mass the Lord offers a gift of Himself in the Eucharist, the Bread of Life, and as we receive this gift we experience Holy Communion. At the end of Mass, the Christian disciple is commissioned by the Lord through the Church to offer their lives at the service of this communion.

Following the example of Jesus, the Christian is called to offer his or her life back to God for the salvation of others. It is in the offering of our lives that we become truly free and capable of bearing much fruit for the Lord: “Unless the grain of wheat falls to the earth and dies it remains just a grain of wheat; but if it dies, it produces much fruit” (John 12:24).

The primary way by which the Lord calls us to service is through our Vocation (Marriage, Consecrated Life, Priesthood), in which our lives are directed to service, building up and ultimately, salvation of others (CCC 1534).

Through Baptism and our primary Vocation, all Christians are called to be at the service of the Lord and His Kingdom. For the laity especially, it is a call to seek the Kingdom of God by engaging in the temporal affairs of our day and to order them to according to God’s plan (Lumen Gentium, 31).

Our faith in the Lord Jesus must express itself through a life of Christian charity: “Love one another as I have loved you” (Jn 13:34). The Lord emphatically teaches us that we must care for the poor, the sick, the lost and forsaken, the most vulnerable in our society. He identifies Himself with them: "Amen, I say to you, whatever you did for one of these least brothers of mine, you did for me" (Matthew 25: 40).

The Church, working through her various members, seeks to promote, protect and ensure the dignity of every human person, and the rights that flow from it (CCC 1943 & 1945).

Through the Corporal and Spiritual Works of Mercy, the Church has articulated for us some of the primary ways we are called to be at the service of the dignity of the human person:

Corporal Works of Mercy:
1. Feed the hungry.
2. Give drink to the thirsty.
3. Clothe the naked.
4. Shelter the homeless.
5. Comfort the imprisoned.
6. Visit the sick.
7. Bury the dead.

Spiritual Works of Mercy:
1. Instruct the ignorant.
2. Counsel the doubtful.
3. Admonish sinners.
4. Bear wrongs with patience.
5. Forgive offenses willingly.
6. Comfort the afflicted.
7. Pray for the living and the dead.
Resources for Discipleship, Service, and Vocation:

There are many local opportunities your parish community can find right in your own parish neighborhood and town.

Cor Unum:
If you are looking for another opportunity outside of your town to experience and bring back to your parish, a great example would be the great work of Cor Unum.

Our Mission: Offering the Best to Those in Greatest Need

At Cor Unum, we eliminate hunger every day. We welcome and serve all who are in need with the utmost dignity, love, and respect – with open hands, listening ears, and loving hearts.

Labels are for Jars:

Labels Are For Jars is a dynamic and exciting undertaking that is helping to remove the “hungry” label in two ways – by undermining societal labeling and by feeding hungry people.

Labels Are For Jars has raised over $900,000 to build and operate the Cor Unum Meal Center.

- Raises money to operate the Cor Unum Meal Center, which feeds hungry people living in Lawrence, MA, one of the poorest cities in the United States.
- Our goal is to raise as much money as possible to feed as many hungry people as possible.
- We have designed a thought-provoking black t-shirt, which in addition to looking great, helps to undermine societal labeling. The shirt is adorned with a commonly used negative label on the chest. All shirts have our “Labels Are For Jars” logo across the back.
- The way that many people have learned about Labels Are For Jars has been through the creative work of our street teams.
- Street Teams: Groups of all shapes and sizes have banded together to take the Labels Are For Jars message to the streets of their communities. Families, individuals, church groups and student organizations have taken action to raise money to feed the hungry through Labels street teams.

Introduction to Alpha for Catholics

Alpha is a Tool for Catholic Renewal and the new evangelization

Summary of Alpha in a Catholic Context: Alpha is running in the Catholic Church in 60+ countries and was offered at World Youth Day in Cologne, Germany in 2005 and in Sydney, Australia in 2008. Overall Alpha has impacted 15,000,000 worldwide in 130+ countries and 74 languages. In the US 8000+ courses have been offered to 2,000,000 participants, and 75+ Catholic parishes have run Alpha in NE (30 in NH). A 2007 study of recent NE converts found that 28% came to faith through Alpha. Alpha is a 10 week Christian course which introduces non-Christians and Christians to the essentials of Christianity in a non-threatening way. “The Alpha Course in A Catholic Context” introductory guide is available to answer all the basic questions about Alpha in a Catholic context and the impact it is having around the world.

Cardinal O’Malley, Archdiocese of Boston

Many of our Catholic parishioners have benefited from the Alpha program by way of its building on their initial interest in the Church, as a pre-catechumenate experience, or for others, a renewal of their desire to more deeply understand and live their Catholic faith. Life-long faith formation is a priority for our religious education programs and I am grateful for the efforts of those who seek to assist with this important work. Should pastors of our parishes wish to utilize the Alpha program as part of their religious education curriculum they can do so with my approval.

Pope John Paul II, Mission of the Redeemer, 1990

I sense the moment has come to commit all of the Church’s energies to a new evangelization and mission to all nations. No believer in Christ, no institution of the Church can avoid this supreme duty: to proclaim Christ to all peoples.

Reasons to Utilize Alpha:

1. ALPHA provides an opportunity to establish and/or enhance a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.
2. ALPHA is endorsed internationally by bishops and cardinals, and it is running in Catholic churches in over forty countries.
3. ALPHA attendees routinely come to full sacramental participation in the Catholic Church.
4. Most ALPHA participants become active in bible study, prayer groups, church ministries and/or community outreach
5. ALPHA provides an important point of entry back into the Church for lapsed Catholics.
6. ALPHA is lay-led, affordable, non-threatening, easy to present and training is available.
7. ALPHA works best with the blessing of the pastor.
8. ALPHA powerfully builds parish community, fostering the new evangelization.
9. ALPHA can revitalize a parish.
10. ALPHA has a regional team of Catholic advisors that can help local parishes.
